COUNCIL MAY RECONSIDER DR. MCGIBBON'S CLAIM

Pound Fees Refunded but not to be a Precedent—Isolation Hospital Tender—City Lots Sold

The city council met last night in the city hall for the despatch of public business. Present—Mayor May, Aldermen: Griesbach, Picard, Latta, Calhoun, Manson, Smith, Mays, Commissioner Hargreaves, City Engineer Keeley, City Solicitor Beck and Mr. Collings who acted as secretary.

THOSE FEES AGAIN
Dr. McGibbon addressed the council requesting consideration of his letter to them some time ago asking that the expenses incurred in connection with the isolation hospital inquiry be paid according to the recommendation of Judge Harvey. He read from the evidence taken at the investigation to show that it was the intention of the judge to regard Mr. Biggar, counsel for Dr. McGibbon as a Crown prosecutor since the city solicitor had chosen to act for the city council and medical health officer instead of for the Crown. On this ground he asked that the expenses of his counsel amounting to $350 be paid. He also criticized the action of the council in paying $30 to one of the witnesses for submitting expert evidence that was calculated to injure his professional reputation.

This matter having been voted down before, the mayor ruled that it could not be considered without a notice of motion. Alderman Griesbach was disposed to reconsider the question, since he had become familiar with the minutes of the investigation. Alderman Mays stated he was of the same opinion. He gave notice of motion to consider the question again at the next meeting of the council.

REGULAR BUSINESS
After the reading of the minutes by Mr. Collings, the city solicitor read the communications.

THE POUND BY-LAW
The first was from J. R. Brenton, and R. B. Watt complaining that their cows had been illegally impounded, since publicity had been given to the recent amendment to the pound by-law extending the limits of the pound area. They asked that the money collected by the pound keeper be refunded.

The question then arose whether it was necessary to publish such by-laws to make them legal. The solicitor thought that according to the strict letter of the law such by-laws come into force as soon as they are passed by the council. Specific advertisement was not necessary. The petition of the complainants was granted but ratepayers were asked to take notice that ignorance of the by-law will no longer be taken as a legitimate excuse.

The request of J. R. Tharner to conduct a lunc wagon was refused.
CLAIMS RE-IMBURSEMENT
A communication from Donald Ross asking for reimbursement was read and a report from the commissioners recommended that Mr. Ross be reimbursed to the extent of $485. Report left over until Mr. Kinnaird returns.

IMPROVING FIRE APPLIANCES
Another report was submitted by the commissioners carrying out the recommendations of the chief of the fire department, whereby the number of steamer hydrants will be increased and

No civilian is allowed to leave the railway station in the city or go towards the camp unless fully identified. None are allowed to approach by any road unless known. The grand review is scheduled for August 19th after which the imperial family go to Tsarskoe Selo instead of returning to Petersburg.

CITY WANTS PART OF RESERVE.

An important matter respecting the city was discussed by the council last evening. The action of the penitentiary authorities in stopping further operations in extending the driveway across the ravine on the government reserve, has opened up a new question for the council to deal with.

Last week Inspector Dawson and Warden McCauley conferred with the city authorities and discussed the transfer to the Crown of the twenty-five acres purchased by the city from the Crown, presumably for railway purposes.

A letter was read from the Inspector of Penitentiaries setting forth the reasons why the city should convey the said property to the Crown. The principal reason was that the city in the purchase of the land, desired it as a terminal site for the C. N. R. and it was on those conditions the Crown made the conveyance to the city. This agreement has been disregarded and the government reserve has been cut up by the diagonal course of the railway which would not have occurred if the former intention had been carried out.

The penitentiary authorities are willing to give back the purchase money with interest, and allow the city to retain five acres situated across Rat Creek between the city's property and the Government reserve. When the

HARVEST EXCURSIONISTS MAY BEAT THE RECORD OF 1901

FORT FAIR A SUCCESS

Annual Celebration at the Garrison Town Held Yesterday

Fort Saskatchewan, Aug. 14—The annual fair held here yesterday was fairly well attended and generally successful. The forenoon was spent in arranging exhibits and judging.

In the afternoon series of horse races was put on. The first, a three minute trot or pace was won by Warrie Willie; time 3.01. The free-for-all was won by Miss Elizabeth, time 2.32. In the half mile pony race Helen Gould took the race, time 56.

Edmonton won the ball game from Calgary by a score of 3 to 2, after a hard contest. The game throughout was exciting, not a little of the excitement being caused by the persistent kicking of the Calgary players at the decisions of Garrelan. On one occasion the team flocked into the diamond and refused to leave until escorted off by the police.

In the evening there was a little excitement out in front of the Queen's hotel, when Jack Downes and Wally Watson gave a wrestling contest. The agreement was that Downes was to throw Watson inside of ten minutes or give him a dollar a minute for every minute after three minutes. Watson won, as Downes did not throw him.

The exhibits were small in nearly all classes, but were uniformly good. The vegetable exhibit is worth special note. The live stock exhibits were not large, but some excellent individuals were shown. The display in the hall was small, but contained some splendid specimens of ladies' work, etc.

Last Year's Record Already Beaten.—High Wages the Inducement.—Mammoth
Excursion Leaves Toronto.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Toronto, Aug. 14—About five thousand and harvesters, who have been brought into the city today by trains from all parts of western Ontario, left this afternoon for Manitoba and the west by six trains. The wages being paid this year are understood to be mounted. The majority of those who left on the maritime excursion last week received $2 per working day and board, or $45.00 per month, rain or shine and board. Many of these leaving on today's excursion are assured of daily wages of $3 and board, the increase of western farmers securing competent help at the earliest possible moment. This year's figures for the first excursion totalled 4,354 and these are already recognized to be wiped out with full returns not yet in. In fact those in authority predict that the record year of 1901 when Ontario and the eastern provinces contributed over 19,000 harvesters to the west will be eclipsed. Inquiries already made indicate that last year's total of 14,500 is already passed.

Winnipeg, Aug. 15—The distribution of Maritime harvesters over Manitoba has been practically completed, extra coach being added to all western trains of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. systems, over 1,500 men leaving the city in this manner during the day. Such as remain will be ticketed to points near Winnipeg. In all 5,000 harvest hands have gone out. Tuesday an excursion from the western part of Ontario left for the west. It will reach Winnipeg Thursday night and Friday morning if usual time is made.

Council Cannot Reduce Assessment

After the disposal of the business on the order paper last night, the city council devoted considerable time and discussion to some important matters. Ald. Smith opened up the question of widening the streets. He referred specifically to Namayo. Beyond Rat Creek it is narrow, and now is the time to take steps to have it widened before property becomes too high.

Ald. Latta introduced a discussion on the question of dividing the city into wards before the next municipal election. The mayor was not in favor of this movement. Cities with the ward system were abolishing it. Ald. Griesbach thought it would introduce business and ward politics. In large cities where there is a foreign element, it is often difficult to find a suitable representative.

Ald. Manson said steps should be taken to ensure the establishment of a driveway along the brow of the hill on the Hudson's Bay Reserve as buildings were being erected there now.

The mayor said that already from Sixteenth street west, a street was surveyed. The question was left to the streets and parks committee.

A long discussion followed upon the city assessment introduced by Ald. Picard. He said the council was being criticized for the high assessment. The assessment was too high and was almost double that of last year. The principle was wrong, as it was impossible for the city to double its assessment every year. He was in favor of reducing the assessment as a whole 25 or 35 per cent. Ald. Griesbach asked the city solicitor if the council had power to reduce the assessment as a whole.

While the solicitor was looking up this point, Ald. Calhoun asked who valued the property. The assessor being present informed him that he (the assessor) did the valuating. Ald. Calhoun thought the assessor must have changed his mind. He charged the assessor with deceiving values of property in his public utterances. The assessor denied that he had done so, but said that by the charter he was sworn to assess property at its cash value.

Ald. Bellamy warmed up the discussion by saying that really values were too high and out of proportion to business. The business man would suffer. "Business men have always been up against it in this city," said the alderman. Edmonton has passed the status of a retail centre. If we cannot be a wholesale centre, reality must slump. Edmonton is asleep in the matter of securing the establishment of manufactories and wholesale houses. Calgary is getting the wholesale business of this section of the west, and, once established there, it will be difficult to induce them to come to Edmonton.

In answer to Ald. Griesbach's question the city solicitor informed the council they had no power to reduce the assessment as a whole. The commissioners have power to consider individual appeals from the assessor's valuation. Such appeals may be carried to the council and finally to a Judge. Judge Scott has ruled that no general appeal can be considered by the court of revision.

Ald. Picard then followed with some examples of the assessment. He said a lot last spring for $150 which was assessed for $400 and offered to him back for $250. The council should have some power to rectify such a grievance.

(Special to The Bulletin.)
London, Aug. 14—King Edward started today for Cronburg, Prussia, where he meets Emperor William on Wednesday. The interview between the monarchs brings to an end a long standing personal bitterness, which was due to the Kaiser's attempt to dictate to the King how to conduct himself internationally. The monarchs will discuss the international situation, but nothing of immediate importance politically is expected from the meeting.

FOSTER'S FORECAST.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 11.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 9 to 13, warm wave 8 to 12, cool wave 11 to 15. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 13, cross west of Rockies country by close of 14, great central valleys 15 to 17, eastern states 18. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 16, great central valleys 18, eastern states 20.

This disturbance will follow one of the coolest periods of August and following it will come some of the hottest days and driest weather of the month. It will not be a severe disturbance on the Pacific slope but will begin to increase in force as it passes on to the Atlantic coast and will become a severe storm out on the north Atlantic.

Fifth disturbance of August will reach Pacific coast about 18, cross west of Rockies country by close of 19, great central valleys 20 to 22, eastern states 23. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies country about 18, great central valleys 20, eastern states 22. A wave will cross west of Rockies about 21, great central valleys 23, eastern states 25.

This disturbance will be moderate on Pacific coast, will increase in force as it crosses the Rockies and will be a fierce storm in the central valleys and the eastern states. Temperatures of this disturbance will average high, heavy rains in small sections and increasing drought in parts of the corn belt.

I am expecting frosts first days of September, where they sometimes occur at that season. My forecasts predicted more rain in eastern and southern than in the corn belt states for the crop season of 1906 and the prediction was good.

Only one dealer in a town can sell the real "Semi-ready."

Dealers who did not get the franchise for the prosperous towns are sorry, though they declined it seven years ago on the ground that the profit fixed by the makers was a small one. They argued they could make bigger profits selling ordinary ready-mades.

The real profit in Semi-ready tailoring is the many sales made and the ease with which goods can be sold when the maker gives the guarantee bond found in every pocket of every Semi-ready garment. New Customers of Semi-ready are regular patrons.

PLEASED WITH THE COUNTRY

Dr. von Baumfield, and wife of Vienna, Austria, have left for home Sunday, after a long driving trip through Eastern Alberta. The doctor is a director of one of the large Vienna dairies, and made the trip for the purpose of furnishing some accurate information to his fellow-countrymen at home. He claims that the Canadian government is not doing enough to induce Austrian and German immigrants to come to Canada. Upwards of 200,000 had gone to the United States in the past year, which he thinks, in the light of what he has just seen, was a great mistake. He was delighted with the country and thought he had never seen anything to equal it. He would certainly boom it in his paper at home. He was accompanied on the trip by Mr. P. Wagner, of the local immigration office.

Regina Standard: Judge Scott, of Edmonton and the first mayor of Regina, is to be a guest of the city at the laying of the corner stone of the new city hall on Wednesday of next week. A half holiday is to be proclaimed.

The City Clerk of Regina, Mr. J. Kelso Hunter and Mrs. Hunter, on Wednesday, August 2, celebrated their silver wedding, it being the 25th anniversary of their marriage in Sunderland, England. The unique event was celebrated by an "at home" dance given in the city hall by Mr. and Mrs. Hunter. Nearly one hundred and forty guests were present and an excellent orchestra of six musicians was in attendance and dancing was engaged in up to a late hour. During the evening refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, who were the recipients of congratulations from all sides throughout the day, have been in the country a little over fourteen years, having resided in the Yorkton district for nearly seven years previous to moving to Regina eight years ago. It was in the Yorkton district that Mr. Hunter founded the Orcaid colony, which gave rise to the Orcaid of today. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter were simply inundated with presents from their numerous friends, all anxious to mark the pleasure they felt in taking part in the happy occasion. Among those present were His Honor Lieutenant-Governor and Madame Forget.

SELF DESTROYING ARGUMENTS

Toronto, Aug. 7.—The Sunday World publishes the following special despatch from Ottawa:

"With the members of the cabinet out of town, political circles have time to sort out political combinations and take stock of what is on hand."

"The question most often asked is, How long will Sir Wilfrid stand for Hon. Mr. Oliver? It is an open secret that the minister of the interior is an extraordinary man, iconoclastic in dealing with party traditions and organization and as untamed as a broncho."

"His sojourn in England is expected to result in storms. He prefaced his voyage by cashiering W. T. R. Preston and offering him a position he knew he would not accept. With Liberal opinion in favor of capital punishment for Mr. Preston, Mr. Oliver's mercy was extraordinary. But he will meet Preston in London, and it is given out that even Lord Strathcona as high must bow to the minister. The forced retirement of Lord Strathcona as high commissioner would cause a great row but there is no telling what Mr. Oliver will do when he takes a spasm to put things aright."

"Out of the peculiarities of Mr. Oliver arises the belief that he is not long for the cabinet. Even a movement is on foot to bring Premier Scott into the government, and make Mr. Oliver Canada's representative in London in reality, as Lord Strathcona has been in name these long years. There are Liberals who look to Premier Scott to be prime minister of Canada some day."

"The story that Hon. Mr. Sifton wants to get back into the government is not believed. Mr. Sifton is not well, he can't sleep at night. He might be content to be the Jethro Bass of the government, with Premier Scott as minister of the interior, and a probable prime minister."

The inner history of this article would not be without interest. The session being over the newspaper correspondents have long since fled the sweltering capital and are probably replenishing their vocabularies along the breezy shores of the Muskoka lakes. The "special Ottawa correspondence" of which the above professes to form a fragment is doubtless manufactured in spare moments by the "space fillers" of the Ottawa Evening Journal and its contemporaries. It would not be surprising therefore to find that the Journal oracle who discovers such profound insight in the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto World is also the correspondent in question and behind the screen of anonymity is patting himself on the back as the Sherlock Holmes of Bytown.

The authorship of the anonymous epistle, however, is of less interest and importance than the view point and nature of the article itself. While the Minister of the Interior is accused by his Edmonton opponents of having fallen from the pedestal of independence and of having become an Hebrew of the Hebrews in matters political the Ottawa paragraph regards him as "iconoclastic in dealing with party traditions and organization," and while his Edmonton critics portray him as the personification of ultra-loyalty to political associates and associations the Ottawa artist likens him to an untamed broncho in the Government corral. In Edmonton his constituents are admonished to abandon faith in him because he is a partisan; in Ottawa his colleagues are represented as ready to abandon faith in him because he is not even a reasonably reliable party man. In Edmonton he is assailed as too much of a partisan; in Ottawa is condemned as too little of a partisan.

The charges are equally true and mutually contradictory and will profit their inventors as little as the innumerable other exaggerations which they have promoted in Edmonton and denied in Ottawa.

Is an extremely important one, as so many mothers know. It is sometimes very hard to get a shoe that will fit a child's foot properly, and often requires a large stock to choose from. ## CHILDREN'S SLIPPERS

That's the right way—the safe way to buy tea.

To ask for tea, without specially mentioning Blue Ribbon, leaves you in danger of getting one of the many ordinary kinds—none of which would really satisfy you.

The rich flavor, fragrant aroma and sustaining strength of Blue Ribbon Tea make it well worth the trouble of asking for. Look for the name, "Blue Ribbon" on the package—your protection against substitutes.

Is the City Growing Westward?

The census returns show that the city is growing rapidly. The building permits tell the same story. The city is growing in every direction, but what part is making the most substantial growth?

Assuming that McDougall Avenue is the centre of the city, the actual figures as taken from the records of the building inspector would indicate not only a GREATER but a MORE SUBSTANTIAL growth in the Western part of the city. Up to the morning of August 10th the records show that building permits were taken out as follows—

	No. Permits	Valuation	Average Value
East McDougall Ave.	265	$316,300.00	$1,194.00
West McDougall Ave.	279	778,155.00	2,789.00

COMING IN FROM THE NORTH (Special to the Bulletin)

Anahabes Landing, Aug. 14.—Bishop Girouard and Bishop Breynot, accompanied by Father Huason and Sister Sostine arrived from Peace River to-day on their way to Edmonton, also W. C. King and Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland and children from Fort Vermilion.

Western Items

High River Times: The necessity for the appointment of a veterinary officer at High River for the inspection of export stock is quite evident, and no time should be lost for there is a crying demand that such an appointment should be made. During the year thousands of stock are shipped from this district and much time and money is squandered by shippers waiting for the arrival of an officer from Calgary.

High River Times: The fall wheat crop throughout Southern Alberta will yield much more than was anticipated early in the season. The remarkable manner in which the wheat stood out accounts for the improved condition. One farmer informed the Times' man that from one root as many as 35 and 40 stools may be counted, which is certainly an extraordinary thing.

Fernie Ledger: The Fernie Lumber Company is just completing a contract for 1,000,000 feet of 1 x 3 and 3 x 4 inch cedar planking for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Winnipeg. The demand for lumber is so great and so insistent that all the mills in the country are kept going at full capacity, and many of them would run double time if cars and men could be obtained to handle the business.

Lethbridge News: C. S. Crest came to the Lethbridge district last autumn and began breaking his land. He plowed most of the winter and began seeding in February. Last Wednesday he began cutting 1000 acres of wheat, and he has another 1000 acres in oats. The land is irrigable and water has been put on it once this year. Both wheat and oats will be a good crop.

Lethbridge Herald: A terrible accident happened to the two children of E. Simon. The little ones, Robert, aged 2 and Winnie, aged 4, were playing about the kitchen, when a boiler, containing boiling water, and lying, upset, and fell over them. Both were rightfully burned and the youngest child, though every effort was made by Dr. Tuller to save his life, died in the evening. The other child is in a serious condition, but Dr. Tuller has hopes that she will recover.

Regina, Standard: At last night's meeting of the board of trade a letter from J. H. Haslam gave occasion for a discussion regarding the establishment of a meteorological observation station at Regina, with a view to a daily publishing of the records by the United States office in the bulletin issued throughout the states. Commissioner Boyle explained that J. C. Honeyman, deputy minister of agriculture, is already taking the matter up with the Ottawa authorities, but it was decided that a special committee consisting of Messrs. McAr, Cooper, and Haslam be appointed to deal directly regarding this matter.

Yorkton Enterprise: Mr. MacFadyen, of the seed grain branch of the Department of Agriculture, Regina, will be here on the 10th and 11th of this month to judge the ten-acre plots of wheat entered in the seed grain competition which the department inaugurated this spring. The special prize of $40 first; $20 second; $20 third; and $10 fourth, will be given for the best ten acres of growing wheat to be judged by points.

DEVELOPING COLD STORAGE Vancouver, Province: In anticipation of the development of a large frozen mutton trade between Australia and Vancouver, and return cargoes of perishable fruit from this port, the Canadian-Australian liner Moana has recently been fitted out with large cold storage capacity, and all her holds have been insulated for the transportation of perishable goods. The work on the Moana was performed at Port Chalmers, the port of Dunedin, New Zealand, while the steamer was of the Sydney-Vancouver run this summer. The Miowera and Aorangi both have cold storage quarters.

AN UNUSUAL DECISION Vancouver, Aug. 11.—I find no fault with this man, but I bind him over to appear on a charge of manslaughter if the government feels inclined to take up the case.

This was the puzzling decision of Magistrate Williams in the charge of manslaughter brought against Captain Griffin of the steamer Prince Victoria, in connection with the wreck of the Chehalis. Counsel on both sides claim the victory, and everybody united in saying that the magistrate got out of a most difficult position in a tactful way, by putting it up to the local government.

The C.P.R. looks upon the decision as practically an acquittal since it means Capt. Griffin cannot come up for trial except on an indictment preferred by the attorney general. The lawyers for the private prosecution, on the other hand, say that the attorney-general pronounces on every case for commitment, and the decision, so far from being advantageous to Capt. Griffin, deprives him of the right to elect for speedy trial and makes it necessary for him to stand trial before a Vancouver jury. However, the magistrate's decision is not a commitment, and it all rests with the government at Victoria whether anything more is heard of the charges against Griffin.

ITALY'S GIANT WARSHIP.

(Brooklyn Daily Eagle.)

If the peace of nations is to be kept by force, Italy intends to do her part. She is building an engine of order and morality that will be respected, and that it is hoped will never be used. When here great battleship is finished she will have, theoretically the finest implement of destruction in the world. It is larger than the Dreadnought, England's present pride and will carry guns of so much greater reach that she can fight the Dreadnought to the bottom without coming in sight of her decks. As a consequence England has been stirred by what is construed as a threat against her maritime supremacy, and will be unceasingly nagged to build a ship yet bigger than the Italian monster, with heavier armor and guns of greater range; and that means that France, and Germany, and bankrupt Russia, and even our own tranquil republic will plunge into the ship building industry.

What a broadside this ship will fire! Five tons of shells will leave her throats at the instant! This outdoes the broadside of the Dreadnought 50 per cent. in weight, and the range of the Italian rifles enables her to pound any ship afloat while lying entirely outside the range of the enemy's batteries. All that the Italian ship is to be heavier armored than the Dreadnought, and her speed at least two knots greater, and the cause for British disquietude and wounded pride is obvious—or would be if any angry discussion were passing between Rome and London.

Still expectation should not build too greatly on the Italian war vessel. There are naval engineers, not a few who hold that the maximum of weight in armament, consistent not merely with practical service, but with the safety of the ship, has already been attained, and that it is time to retract. Again, submarine war presents certain possibilities that are not to be entirely ignored, even in operations carried on with intervals of miles between contending fleets. And, chiefly, there is the matter of discipline and marksmanship, for the steel never will be forged that can strike so surely as the eye and hand of the man who wields it.

THE KING AND CANADA

London Times.—The answer of His Majesty, the King to, the invitation of both Houses of the Dominion Parliament to visit Canada has been received with genuine regret and disappointment by the Canadian people. That the answer has been in the negative is in no sense due to any lack of interest on the part of the Sovereign in the welfare of the great Dominion which has made such marvelous strides since the days when he visited it as Prince of Wales, nor from any want of appreciation of the spirit of affectionate loyalty in which the invitation was received. Like his predecessor, Queen Victoria, King Edward has been fully imbued with a sense of the responsibility of the Sovereign House towards the whole of its vast dominions and has consistently encouraged the heir to the throne and other members of the royal family to visit even the most distant portions of the Empire. The advantages to the Canadian visit, indeed, have been of a purely practical nature. The current business of the Empire imposes a burden upon the Sovereign which is already heavy enough in itself and leaves little time or strength for a journey which would almost inevitably be prolonged considerably beyond the length of His Majesty's ordinary visits to the continent for health and recreation and which would undoubtedly involve a great deal of physically exhausting work. It would be difficult to resist the pressure to extend the visit from one part of Canada to another. And, when once the visit had been accomplished it would be no less difficult for the King to decline a invitation to visit some remote portion of the Empire, such as Australia, or India, in circumstances still more fatiguing and involving even more serious interruption of the ordinary duties of State. These are weighty considerations and it would be impossible for us to doubt their conclusiveness in present conditions. We are glad to note, nevertheless, that the latter portion of the message holds out a slight hope that possibly on some future occasion the present difficulties may be overcome. The sentiment of loyalty to the Crown which personifies the higher unity of the Empire has throughout been an important factor in preserving the Empire from disintegration. It was the factor indeed to which Canada the home of the exiled United Empire Loyalists, owe its existence in the past and the maintenance of its integrity against aggression from without and dissension within. That sentiment would gain enormously in length by such a recognition as would be afforded by the Sovereign's personal visit. And so we may venture to express the hope that obstacles which have proved too serious on this occasion may yet at some future date be surmounted.

RUSSELL SAGE'S WILL.
(Chicago News.)

By the terms of Russell Sage's will the colossal fortune which he amassed is kept practically intact. The small gifts of $25,000 bestowed on various relatives are scarcely a drop in the bucket as compared with the total bulk of the $70,000,000 or $80,000,000, which now passes into the hands of Mrs. Sage "absolutely and forever." Of this vast sum, whose use might have been made to redound so enormously to the public good, not a penny is given in the will to philanthropic enterprises of any sort. The whole effect of the will, legally considered, is that where was formerly an aged man of great wealth there is now an aged woman of great wealth.

Those who had hoped that Russell Sage's long life of patient money-grubbing would be shown to have been not without some ultimate altruistic purpose in view will hesitate, however, before concluding that the omission of gifts to charity denotes merely an intention to keep the fortune together as long as possible. The money which he left passes into the possession of a woman of 77 years, who has no children of her own, and who even if she wished to distribute it among her relatives would be deterred by the fact that her husband has given so little to the members of his own family. Taking all the circumstances into account and the fact that Mrs. Sage in the past has been identified with philanthropic projects, it seems almost incredible that the bulk of the fortune will not yet be used for the public good and that in bequeathing the money to his wife the dead financier did not have this purpose in view.

Russell Sage was a maker of money, not a philanthropist in any sense. He knew little and cared less about the charitable projects which other rich men foster. That he should have avoided the question of disposing of his property, passing the problem along to his wife, seems not inconsistent with his curiously one-sided character. The fortune is now Mrs. Sage's, absolutely and without conditions. It is still proved that his object was to let his wife give away his money for purposes which she considers good, he may have acted, after all, with fair judgment.

DYNAMITES AT LETHBRIDGE

Lethbridge, Aug. 14.—A disastrous attempt was made yesterday morning to destroy the residence and probably the entire family of John Scott, a railway employee here, by dynamite. The building was badly wrecked by the explosion, but no one was injured. No motive can be advanced, but the police have a suspect under arrest.

Talks on Orange Meat

(THE PURE FOOD)

Oven Perfection.

If you are a woman, you would revel in the huge ovens that cook Orange Meat. Much of the crisp deliciousness of Orange Meat is due to their matchless baking. After the wheat has been cleared, steam cooked, malted and flaked—the moist flakes are conveyed by automatic carriers to the ovens.

Endless steel screens carry the flakes back and forth, toasting each flake to a rich, golden brown—the final stage in our peerless process of converting a grain of wheat into the most perfect food known to science.

As the major part of every meal for thin people—dyspeptics—"bloodless" folk—those whose systems are "all run down"—and especially for children—Orange Meat has a place that nothing else can satisfy.

A lady in Walkerton says:—"Orange Meat is very wholesome. My brother at 31 years old has taken a great liking to it, and I am glad as it seems such a light wholesome food. I would recommend it to those afflicted with stomach trouble."

At all grocers in 15c. and 25c. packages. Every 15c. package contains a coupon, good for premiums. 25c. or "Jumbo" package contains 2½ times the quantity of the 15c. size. Write "Orange Meat, Kingston" for new premium catalogue.

DEVON CATTLE.

The County of Devon occupies a part of the southern side of Great Britain forming the western portion of that range of country. Much of this tract resembles Wales in its aspect and geological character and affording similar productions in many respects. The cattle were found to be very much alike though and distinctive character had been wholly lost by reason of intermixture among themselves and with the neighboring breeds. A very peculiar variety was found located on the high lands of Devonshire, distinguished by such a common resemblance of properties and form as to render it one of the best defined breeds of the British Islands. The qualities were found to be strictly permanent, being the continued produce of accidental qualities which nature never ceases to yield. The size is comparatively small, falling much below the short and long-horned breeds and also the Hereford, but exceeding the mountain breeds of Scotland and Wales. The color is wholly red, the choice breeding does not allow one white hair on the entire body. In some few cases patches of white are known, but if the colors run into each other and form a mixture the beasts are rejected as of mongrel and alien breed. The general form is light and graceful, the skin of an orange yellow color and the eye is surrounded by a ring of the same color and the inside of the ear is orange red. The horns are of medium length, very fine, and bending upwards in the manner of the wild cattle of the parks. The favorite color is blood red. The comparative smallness of the Devon cow is very remarkable in the breed of that country. It is even more remarkable than in the Hereford cattle, to which the alliance is very evident. Even the bull is much smaller than the ox, and the cow as much smaller than the bull. The cow possesses much room for the extension of the two last ribs and produces a much larger progeny than its form would seem to indicate. The cow is particularly noted for a full, clear eye with the gold colored circle round it, and the same color prevailing on the inside skin of the ear. The countenance, cheerful; the muzzle, orange or yellow, but no black or even white on the face or on any part of the body. The jaws free from thickness and the throat free from dewlap. The points of the back and hind-quarters are round and more free from angles than with other animals that possess a better milking property which is small in the Devon, but the milk is of prime quality.

The general size of the Devon cattle is yet too small, but is on the increase. The posterior width is narrow and the buttock is frequently protuberant and the horn is disproportionately long, all other parts are beyond any other breed of cattle.

FEED THE CALVES WELL.

Good feeding is always profitable and never more profitable than when bestowed upon young animals. The younger the animal the less is the cost per pound for the increase of flesh obtained. A given amount of food will produce more pounds of flesh when fed to a calf three weeks old than to one three months old. In an experiment in feeding several calves it was found that during the first week of feeding eleven pounds of milk were required to produce one pound of increase. The second week twelve pounds, the third week thirteen pounds, the sixth week, fifteen pounds at the ninth week seventeen pounds or a third more than the first week. The wise farmer will readily see the importance of generous feeding, while the animal is young. The less cost of increasing weight is not the only advantage derivable from generous feeding while young. If the young animal is furnished with so scanty a supply of food that his growth is checked and he falls out of condition he is permanently injured. It is seldom that he can by subsequent good feeding be brought to as good a condition as he would have attained if the feed had been good all the time. An experienced Irish farmer says: "As a breeder you must not lose the calf flesh. If you do so by starving the animal at any time of his growth you lose the cream, the covering of flesh so much prized by all retail butchers." Where do all the scraggy, half-fleshed beasts come from that we see in our markets and what is the cause of their scragginess? It is because they have been stunted and starved of their growth. If the calf flesh is once lost it can never be regained. Those who wish to have thrifty, fine looking animals should feed well their calves.

SWINE.

Swine are very multiparous, the gestation of the female being often considerably advanced before the preceding litter is weaned. But the simultaneous processes of breeding and

It is so pleasant to the taste that even children take it with pleasure. It does not "cake" or flake on top of the water.

It effervesces slowly—may be drunk leisurely, without choking or blinding the user like scidlitiz powders.

The granules all dissolve—thus the full benefit of the salt is obtained with every dose. It is the ideal laxative and tonic to purify the blood—regulate stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels—and build up the system.

suckling are too severe to be supported by the animal, and the progeny is best restricted to two litters in the year, which gives some reaction between bearing as the production is in seventeen weeks after impregnation. A very numerous progeny is not desirable, being often puny and delicate. Eight and not exceeding ten pigs are the best litter, when the chance is of being strong and healthy. Sixteen pigs from a sow yearly are better than twenty-four when deaths will be more frequent and the livers are less robust.

During the period of suckling the sow demands a very attentive supply of juicy and liquid food in milks and wheys thickened with meal. Water alone may be used in thickened warm food and assisted by the liquids of the dairy. On the pigs being weaned dry heating food, as oats and beans are given to the sow for the purpose of prompting the salacity which is much forwarded by that application. The pigs are allowed for a time ample food in broths and gruels made with warm milks, wheys and water thickened with meals of oats, barley and horse beans mixed for this purpose. When parted from the sow it is advantageous that the pigs are confined in a shed or sties in order to be fed for a time with food similar to the milk of the udder and have a part of the food of the store-yard to learn the eating of the fare to be used when turned into that congregation. Being thus strengthened by age and accustomed to the food the transition will be easy from the sty to the store-yard and inflict no damage on the progressive growth of the animals. The fire-house, for cooking the food, gives much convenience in providing warm meats for the special purpose of the piggery. In small establishments the kitchen of the farmhouse will afford these warm provisions. It is acknowledged that almost without a single doubt being expressed that swine, before all other animals of the farm, produce the largest quantity of bone, and the animal eats the greatest variety of food that is the least troublesome in the preparation of use. With the exception of drier forage, as hays and straws, on which articles alone cattle and sheep are not readily fattened, swine devour promiscuously almost every leaf and root, rejecting little and consuming very largely. In the store condition of other animals, raw food is preferred as the juice is required to distend the growth. In the fattening process cooked food is required in order that flesh may be easier and more speedily formed. Even in that condition grains are found necessary to give firmness to the flesh and bind the fibrous texture of the animal frame. The experience is ample and is daily practised of rearing and feeding swine in much perfection on unprepared roots and grains and without any confinement of the animals, and as the progress of fattening is slower, the flesh is firmer and more fixed and concentrated. This mode can only be done on a small scale and with a few of the animals to be bred and fattened. The extensive manufactory of swine demands a separation of the age and

THE GALLOWAY HORSE.

Is a small animal which inhabited the districts of country in the west of Scotland and are thought to have descended from the relics of the Spanish Armada, of which some ships were wrecked on the western coast. The animals are now much degenerated, or rather wholly lost in the desire to obtain larger horses from the improved productions. The Galloway was thirteen to fourteen hands high, color bay or brown, legs black and peculiarly deep and clean head and neck small. The qualities were speed and stoutness; with sure footedness over a rugged and mountainous country. The animal constituted the most perfect picture of symmetrical elegance ever seen of the horse genus. Some few remains of the old Galloway are yet found, but are fast disappearing from foreign mixtures. They were doubtless of Moorish descent.

HOW C.N.R. GOT PR. ALBERT ROAD

Prospects of the Owning Company Were Not the Brightest When Mr. McKenzie Appeared on Scene

The following circular has been issued by the committee of the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & S. & C. Co. on a Fair Road & Steamship Company to the shareholders, inviting their attention to the arrangement concluded with Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann by the bondholders' committee:

"The above named gentlemen (the committee) representing large holdings of these bonds were called together by Mr. E. Chaplin, the surviving trustee, in January last as a consultative committee for the protection of the bondholders of the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & S. & C. Co. on a Fair Road & Steamship Company in view of the position as disclosed below.

"The amount of the bonds outstanding is $752,700. The road on which the bonds are charged has a length of about 254 miles, extending from Regina on the Canadian Pacific Railway, to Saskatoon and Prince Albert.

The bonds are also secured by assignment of the government subsidy the full amount of six per cent on the bonds up to and including the coupon due February 1st, 1936.

"An arrangement with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was also made, by which the latter agreed to work the line during the development of its traffic until February, 1937, using its own rolling stock and retain all receipts, but without recourse for loss, if any on the Qu'Appelle Company, and the Canadian Pacific had on the 1st of February, 1936, on giving six months' notice, power to call in and pay off the bonds at 110. This right they did not exercise.

Although the settlement of the country was not so rapid as to give the company substantial earnings during the first six years, the bondholders, under the above arrangement, had all their six per cent. coupons paid up to and including 1st February, 1936.

"And from that date fresh working agreements have from time to time been entered into with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, by whom the road is now being worked from month to month. All coupons subsequent to February 1936, have been paid $2 or $2.25 per annum in cash, and the balance in scrip, until the coupon due 1st February, 1936. At that date a certain number of bondholders refused to accept scrip in settlement of the unpaid balance of their coupons—thus placing the company in default—as it appeared from the accounts that the net earnings, which have materially exceeded the cash distribution, had been retained by the company for some time past for repair to the road, rebuilding of bridges, or making good other defects, and that failing some fresh arrangement such expenditure of earnings was likely to continue, the company having no other funds for such purposes.

"The trustee and the chairman of the committee have been in negotiation with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with the object of coming to some arrangement for the latter company to take over the Qu'Appelle road on terms that would be satisfactory to bondholders, but the committee regrets that no basis of settlement such as they felt they could recommend to the bondholders was arrived at and the negotiations consequently fell through.

"The Qu'Appelle Company's road runs more or less north and south between the lines of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern companies. Worked by either of them it becomes part of the east and west system of one of the great parallel lines, and a useful adjunct to the long haul of either. Worked by itself, it is a short line between two power ul lines, dependent to a great extent on the good will of both, and failing an arrangement, the company having no rolling stock of its own, would have to face a heavy capital outlay for that and other purposes.

"Mr. Mackenzie, the president of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, having heard that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company could not see their way to make an acceptable proposition, then opened negotiations with the committee which resulted in a provisional agreement being concluded which the committee now recommends to the bond and scrip owners, and the substance of which is as follows:

"Messrs. Mackenzie, Mann & Co., Limited, will procure the Long Lake & Saskatchewan Railroad and Steamboat Company to give in exchange for every existing $100 6 per cent bond, $107 in Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & S. & C. Co. on a Fair Road and Steamboat Company 4 per cent debenture stock having thirty years to run, principal and interest guaranteed by the Canadian Northern Railway Company. Interest to accrue from 1st July, 1936, and to be payable half-yearly; the debenture stock not to exceed $1,050,000 in all, having a mortgage on the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & Saskatchewan Railroad and Steamboat Company's road, which will become a first mortgage on the extinction of the present first mortgage bonds on 1st August, 1931, or earlier when all bonds are converted or paid off; converted bonds being in the meantime kept alive as collateral. The Government Subsidy will be utilized as heretofore in part payment of interest on the Debenture Stock.

"The Company to give in exchange for its scrip certificates issued from time to time for balance of unpaid coupons due 1st August, 1936, 30 per cent of their face value in new 4 per cent Debenture Stock above referred to.

"The company to pay Messrs. Chaplin, Milne, Grenell & Co., Limited, the agents of the 6 per cent loan, the sum of $7,000 cash, in full satisfaction of all charges for commission, as well as of expenses connected with the transaction, including unpaid trustee's fees, printing, legal charges, remuneration of the committee, etc., etc.

"Unless the holders of 80 per cent of the face value of the existing bonds come in before the 28th August next and authorize the committee to finally accept the proposals, Messrs. Mackenzie, Mann & Co., Limited, may, within one week, elect whether they will withdraw altogether, or proceed with the conversion of such amount as may be in. New 4 per cent debenture stock in the proportion of $107 per $100 bond and $30 per $100 certificates will be retained against outstanding bonds and certificates which may not be forthwith converted, and issued only for the purpose of conversion of such outstanding bonds and certificates as and when presented."

RUSSEL SAGE.
(Harper's Weekly.)

It was his misfortune that he learned so thoroughly to save money that he had not left in him the power to learn to spend it. That is one of the risks of forming early habits of thrift. If a young person begins early to spend money, as most of us do, he never forgets how, but he may learn to save. Conversely, if he learns first to save, he may never learn to spend, and so it was with Uncle Russell. He liked money better than most other things, and would rather keep it than swap it for them. He did not care for good clothes nor for feasting. He wore indifferent clothes, and used his digestion so considerably that it lasted him ninety years. But he was willing enough to buy what he wanted. He lived on Fifth Avenue, which is not a cheap street: he had a house by the sea (rather a plain one), and he had good horses. Moreover, he was twice married. Both his wives were excellent women, and he received, and probably inherited, from both of them the kindest treatment. He did the thing he liked best to do, lived simply, soberly, and long, and certainly got a great deal of enjoyment out of life, so that though it may seem a pity that he never learned to spend money to good purpose, he must be rated, even by materialists, as a pretty successful man.

Though folks laughed at the saving ways of Mr. Sage, and his insistent adherence to the simple life, there was very little jealousy or dislike of him because he was rich. No doubt that was because he never spent any money worth mentioning for his own pleasure. But the fact also emphasizes a point to which we called attention some time ago, that the rich men who are most criticized are those who give the most money away. No doubt it should be set down to the credit of Mr. Sage's discretion that he never tried to pauperize anybody or anything.

CHIEF'S RETURN WELL PLEASSED
(Special to the Bulletin)

London, Aug. 15.—The King's words to the B.C. Indian chiefs were "I am very well pleased at the good words which you have spoken of me, and am well pleased with the words which you have spoken about the late Queen, my mother. I hope you will return home safe again, having enjoyed your visit." Afterwards the King forwarded a letter to chiefs at Lord Strathcona's office, expressing the pleasure the visit had given him and his appreciation of the addresses to himself and the queen. The chiefs return on the steamer, Lake Manitoba Thursday.

THE AUTOMOBILE AND CRIME.

(Chicago-Tribune)

It is hardly surprising that the automobile so quickly has become an efficient aid to people of criminal life. Capable of tremendous speed, operated easily upon a country road, and not readily traced within the city's confines, the machine takes its place as one of the most dangerous of assistants to crime. An unpunished murder will be recalled where the automobile carried the victim from the heart of the city to a lonely spot in the country, where death came quickly, while the murderer escaped, leaving nothing behind him of sufficient value as a clue to enable the best detectives ever to trace him.

A Rockford item describes the visit of two burglars who robbed nearly every safe and vault in a six storey building, and then, attempting to escape in an automobile, were captured after a thirty block chase. In they had had a fair head start, but the presumption was largely in favor of their successful eluding of the pursuers. The old time story of the express wagon loaded with stolen goods and driven rapidly away must make place now for the more up-to-date narrative of the touring car and the begoggled chauffeur. Nor is the plain safe and office burglar the only sort of gent who uses the automobile as an aid to crime. The gentlemanly swindler in a high grade touring car must have consideration in the newer tales of "Old Sleuth," if the somewhat suspicious story of a widow, a missing $10,000, a red automobile, a sick young man, a fine opening for some one with a bond, and a trip to Evanston is taken to be true.

When leading business men are arrested for fast driving that endangers life, when speeding cars in the darkness run over chance pedestrians and leave them dead by the wayside, it is a fact continually brought home to the citizen that the use of the automobile is attended with great dangers. These dangers in many instances are to be credited to thoughtlessness or carelessness and not to evil intent. But it is already apparent that not every one who owns or uses an automobile is to be regarded as a gentleman or entitled to the consideration of police authorities. These fresh stories of crime committed with the aid of the machine disprove the theory suggested. The chauffeur and his seat companion may be gentlemen or may be burglars, flim-flammers, or fugitive murderers.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN RAILROAD CARS.

(Scientific American.)

Undoubtedly, the great strength and weight of the American car and the signal weakness and weakness of the English car are the outcome of the conditions under which the railroad systems of the two countries have been developed. The vast distances to be covered in America; the impossibility, because of the prohibitive cost of building the pioneer railroads of first class construction; the rigid axle, the consequent frequency and serious nature of the derailments and collisions, rendered it necessary, early in the development of our railroads, to build the rolling stock of great strength and weight. Moreover, the adoption of the swiveling truck placed at each end of the car, as distinguished from the rigid axle, distributed along the length of the car in the English and Continental system, made it possible in America to construct the cars of much greater length than was possible in Europe; and with the increase in length it became necessary to make a proportionately greater increase in the strength. These two causes combined are an ever-ready for the weight and strength of the American passenger car of today, and the development has been pushed to such a length, that the latest passenger Pullman cars weigh between 60 and 70 tons apiece, which is more than the weight of many of the passenger locomotives of the present day.

In England and on the Continent development of the railroads took place after the population had grown to a density which guaranteed a heavy freight and passenger traffic immediately upon the opening of the roads and warranted the construction of the roadbed, track, and bridges, upon a scale of solidity and excellence which was impossible in building the pioneer railroads of America. Not only so, but early in their history, an excellent system of safety signals was adopted and travel was thus rendered relatively safe. The excellent roadbed, heavy track, and comparative absence of curvature made it possible for the English engineers to use the rigid axle and short length of car; hence it was not necessary to build the cars on such massive lines as here in America. English rolling stock has always appeared to be remarkably light as compared with the rolling stock in America.

"BACK TO THE LAND."

(New York World.)

One of the strangest phases of current political agitation is the movement "back to the land" made by the unemployed in England. Thus in Plaster, West Ham, a colony camped on borough land and 2,000 persons gathered to protect them if the police should try to drive them off. In Leconfield, a Manchester suburb, thirteen men seized a piece of glebe land of Holy Trinity church, Hulme. In each case a tent was erected and food was marked out for individual distribution. Political effect in calling attention to the economic situation is the object of these demonstrations. The efforts of the colonists are about as practical as children's play-farming. The thirteen of Leconfield had one spade between them to prepare their plots, and in this country a spade is not much of an agricultural implement. Political purpose shows also in the selection of public or church lands for colonization, rather than private land, though notice is given that grouse moors and deer forests will be considered vacant land for colonization.

Scoffers say that the colonists are now apt in taking up collections than in farming, which is not surprising. Farming is skilled labor. Yet there is self-sacrifice among the colonists. The nights are cold in England to an ill-clad, ill-fed man. The soil of Great Britain under intensive cultivation could support its population, yet in fifty years it has spent $5,000,000, 000 for imported wheat. The English land system is atrocious. If the colonists help to mend that their blisters will not have been suffered in vain.

SOME MURDER FIGURES.

(Ottawa Evening Journal.)

Some interesting statistics as to homicide in Chicago are given by the Record-Herald. Last year there were 187 homicides in Chicago, of which the coroner reported 29 justifiable. That left 158 murders with which the law should have dealt. The Record-Herald says that as a matter of course the punishments were inadequate. On the showing of the past it predicts that this year there will be more murders than ever before, and says: "We accept only 150 murders a year for 2,000,000 population as though it was part of the natural order of things."

Statistics show that all Germany, with more than twenty-five times the population of Chicago, has only 60 per cent. more murders. England and Wales, with sixteen times the population, have only double the murders. France, with almost twenty times the population, has only three and a third times as many murders. Belgium, with three times the population, has less than two-thirds as many murders. Canada, with two and a half times the population, has only one-fourth as many murders.

Andrew D. White, who has studied the subject for years, says that with the exception possibly of lower Italy and Sicily the United States leads the world "in murders, and especially in unpunished murders."

The moral, of course, is not far to seek. Stern justice and the rigid execution of the law is the only cure for the murder habit. The American courts are admittedly lax in their treatment of murderers and the intricate and sometimes apparently endless processes of appeal frequently thwart justice. The British system of apprehending all murderers and then putting them away either by hanging or by life imprisonment is a better one. The Canadian system under which a year or so, or age no less than $200,000 was spent in bringing a Yukon desperado to the gallows is about as good as any. No man in this country need go in fear of his life but if a few fall through the meshes of security their taking off is speedily avenged.

AUTOMOBILE AND CARRIAGE.

(Ohio State Journal.)

Here goes an automobile down the street. How smoothly, how swiftly it glides! It skims along like a swallow. There is a great pleasure in the experience; the very speed is a part of the ideal of joy. The two ladies on the back seat enjoy every foot of the changing scenery. They are so delighted they don't talk. They simply enjoy the swiftness and the flurry of landscape racing past. There is no time for conversation; no spirit for it.

And here goes a coupe or neat little closed carriage, two ladies within, and the colored driver without, driving a good old jogging family horse. It is a quiet scene and a real social affair. The ladies are constantly engaged in conversation, talking of embroidery or family matters, of those soft and gentle things so near their hearts. Speed does not belong to their delights. They have time to notice the row of geraniums over in a yard, and Miss Jones on the veranda, talking to a neighbor. The occupants of the coupe are really visiting while they are going.

So the great difference between a horse vehicle and an automobile is, the former is a social affair and the latter is not. One is for visiting and the other for speeding. So the grave question after all, is not the automobile, destructive of conversation, which is the cornerstone of society? And then, in a one-seated automobile, talk is impossible, for there is an unseen sign glaring on you—"don't talk to the motorman."

Thus the automobile is introducing in society the talkless delight, but it is putting in its place the fair friend banished to the breezes, which may not be altogether a bad exchange.

The One Right Steel Plate Range

Until we found out just the right way to use asbestos to keep the heat in a cooking range where it must cook the food instead of cooking the cook, every steel-plate range kept the kitchen broiling-hot. This range is a cool range—the top shield and lining is thick asbestos, so the heat stays inside the range and keeps even hot. Food is better cooked, quicker cooked and cooked for less fuel-cost.

For Cleanly Cookery OXFORD CHANCELLOR

BURNS WOOD OR COAL

Everything about it is cleanly,—empty the ash-pit without fluffing ashes over everything; feed-pouch takes fuel without clutter and muss. Fuel does more cooking because this range has the right draft-control,—sensitive, easily-governed—bring a fire up quick, cool it down quick.

WOODMEN MEET

A special meeting of the Edmonton Camp, Woodmen of the World, was held in the dining room of the Prince Arthur cafe on Monday evening last at which about twenty-five new members were voted on and admitted. Mr. Jas. A. Ramplin, one of the Held Camp officers, was present and all who were present were fully satisfied with the way Mr. Ramplin put on the work of woodcraft and will be only too pleased when they again have the pleasure of listening to him. Mr. Ramplin has been twenty-five years working for woodcraft and is a man of unbounded enthusiasm, of great experience and of the latest and complete information that pertains to woodcraft.

After the initiation of the new members the sovereigns of the Camp tendered Mr. Ramplin one of the best and most enjoyable banquets ever given in Edmonton. A splendid program was presented and among the numbers the songs of Sov. D. McGill, the music of Sov. C. N. Harper, musical director, and the oration of Sov. Ramplin, deserve special mention. The committee is to be congratulated on the excellent spread furnished.

Mr. Ramplin will be in Edmonton again in a few days, after spending a few days in Calgary when he will join Mrs. Ramplin and a Ladies' Circle will be organized. Any persons who desire to join the order or to learn about Woodcraft, may hand their names to the clerk of the camp, Mr. R. M. Armstrong, who will gladly introduce Mr. Ramplin to them. Mr. Armstrong will also be glad to learn of any ladies who would care to join the circle.

THE ROSCIANS

The Butte Evening News was undoubtedly impressed by The Roscians' clever presentation of Fra Diavolo, which gained for them the following unusual strong encomium: "They can sing and sing well, the people who are at the Broadway this week presenting the old time opera. The Roscians come opera company opened last night in 'Fra Diavolo' to a good audience without having made any extravagant promises. Much of the merit of the company lies in the fact that the management has made music its first consideration. There is not a weak character in the five leading people. The chorus is not large, but every girl and man sings open mouthed and loud and with life and fervor. The honors last night fell to F. W. Walters, the tenor playing Lorenzo-tah! is, the musical honors. His song 'The Idol of My Heart,' was loudly applauded and encored until the tenor could sing no more. Miss Lucie Nois, the prima donna of the company, carrying the part of Zerlina, sang conscientiously and without effort. Her tones were pure and the high notes came off often enough to mark her proficiency. She won favor in her bel-rum song. Hillard Campbell makes a capital Fra Diavolo. His dramatic style is decidedly good. The seat as a for this opera and balance of week is now open at Archibald's.

Growing Time in the West

The wondrous, wondrous West! Pulsating with the life and energy of youth; dreaming high dreams of nationhood; facing the future with boundless hope, while living intensely in the present.

For yesterday, in the West, is soon forgotten; today is the only real day; tomorrow will have its turn when its turn comes.

The wondrous, wondrous West, with a history as romantic as it is tragic; with foundations well laid by heroic pioneers, with a degree of present-day growth that fairly takes one's breath away; with a potentiality of progress that staggers any attempt to forecast it.

The wondrous West! And yet it is only a part of our Canada of the Twentieth Century—the West, in which we of the East glory, for is it not our heritage?

"Do I get a Broadway car here?" I asked a Winnipegger on emerging from the handsome new C.P.R. station.

"Sure!" was the cheery, laconic reply. And Sure is the keyword of the West.

Sure, Winnipeg is the greatest city for its age in Canada, where population and prices take big jumps over night; Sure, the harvest of '06 bids fair to be the richest ever; Sure the West is a land of peace, plenty and fat profits; the other fellow is as good as I; a land where things are going, and where the men live who do things; Sure!

It is fortunate that Winnipeg has lots of elbow room in its growing plains for the billiard-board city is bounded somewhat as Alberta is said to be; on the south by the Ontario boundary, on the west by a sister province, on the east by circumstances, and on the north by the climate.

One realizes anew this remarkable ratio of expansion on a visit after a four years' interregnum. On the outskirts of the city, the tar-paper shack, a mere squatter on the prairie, is a forerunner of neat frame houses on tree-lined and paved streets. Where today is a helters-skelter group of exceedingly humble homes and sod cabins, tomorrow may be an avenue with a high-sounding name and a high rate of taxation. And yet Winnipeg is only one of thirty-one cities of 10,000 in our twentieth-century Canada.

Winnipeg is moreover a city of contrasts. True, there are no Red River carts to be seen on Main street alongside a Mackenzie and Mann electric car, but there are primitive wagon outfits, driven by foreigner farmers, that are far removed from the twenty horse-power autos that honk through its thoroughfares.

Contrasts are always to be had in the immigration halls where a babel of tongues is heard as the human inflow is being sorted out. On Main street is the office of the Bible Society, where a striking contrast is afforded of our conglomerate population. For therefrom the Bible, in whole or in part, is sold to dwellers in the Canadian West in no less than forty-five different languages and dialects.

Contrasts abound on the wide streets of the prairie metropolis. Here in a Smart-Set dame gown in excellent taste (and one sees many well-dressed folks in Winnipeg), doing the shops side by side with the stately stone edifices of the leading denominations; between deep St. Boniface and wide-awake Winnipeg; between the pathetic remnant of Fort Garry and the Hudson's Bay stores hard by Winnipeg is a city of contrasts. Sure!

Great is the Hudson's Bay company, even in its old age. Every post is steeped in the romance of the Far North—a north now being brought near. The Chinese-looking flag of the Company is as suggestive a bit of hunting as the Union Jack that it companions. I reached the company's post at Lower Fort Garry via a remarkable dummy train that was anything but dumb as it teetered and swung and swayed over its primitive trail of steel, and while the jolted traveler tried to kill Manitoba mosquitoes the engineer whistled trespassing cattle off the track.

The white stone-walled Fort enclosure, with its red-roofed buildings and corner towers, has its own page in the history of the Gentlemen Adventurers, and still there come to its gates every mid-winter the red men from Norway House and the Beyond Country with their dog team loads pelts. Many's the time when a round thousand of Indians there congregated. Inside the Fort is a departmental store, with its wood yards and cranaries, ready to buy or sell anything made to sell or wanted in the wonderful West.

I was pointed over the yellow Red River from the fort to a Galician settlement. There the wayfarer found himself in a different world of folk. As I tramped across farms and fields and over the black loam trails, armed with a hundred kodak films, I chanced on groups of peasant women fresh from Bukovina and Galicia working barefooted in their potato fields. Yes, I might photograph the mother if I "took" the baby by itself, and the taking brought me hospitably refreshment: strong tea in a tumbler, white lards heaped on a white plate, squares of bread and hard boiled eggs. Clad in the linen garments worn in their native land, they were picturesque figures, foilers from a far away foreign country, transposing earth's borders on the fertile shores of a great Canadian river where Indian and Hudson's Bay once had the world to themselves.
